4 Описание процедуры оценивания

Результаты обучения по дисциплине, уровень сформированности компетенций оцениваются по четырёх бальной шкале оценками: «отлично», «хорошо», «удовлетворительно», «неудовлетворительно».

Текущая аттестация по дисциплине проводится с целью систематической проверки достижений обучающихся. Объектами оценивания являются: степень усвоения теоретических знаний, уровень овладения практическими умениями и навыками по всем видам учебной работы, качество выполнения самостоятельной работы, учебная дисциплина (активность на занятиях, своевременность выполнения различных видов заданий, посещаемость всех видов занятий по аттестуемой дисциплине).

При проведении промежуточной аттестации оценивается достижение студентом запланированных по дисциплине результатов обучения, обеспечивающих результаты освоения образовательной программы в целом.

Критерии оценивания устного ответа

(оценочные средства: собеседование, устное сообщение, защита плана, кластера)

The United Kingdom is a constitution monarchy. This means that it has a monarch (a king or a queen) as its Head of State. The present British monarch is Queen Elizabeth II, who succeeded to the throne in 1952. The monarch has very little power and can only reign with the support of Parliament, which consists of the House of Commons and the House of Lords. Parliament and the monarch have different roles in the government of the country. In reality, the House of Commons is the only one that has true power, it introduces new bills. They then go to the House of Lords for approval, and finally the monarch signs them. Only then they can become laws.'

The House of Commons is made up of 650 elected members, known as Members of Parliament (or MPs), each of; whom represents an area of the UK. The political parties choose candidates in elections. The party which wins the majority of seats in the House of Commons forms the Government and its leader usually becomes Prime .Minister. The largest minority party becomes the Opposition (or the "Shadow Cabinet"). The Prime Minister chooses about twenty MPs from his or her party and forms his or her Cabinet Ministers. Each minister is responsible for a particular area of government. For example, the Minister of Defence is responsible for defence policy and the armed forces, the Home Secretary for law and order and immigration.

The House of Lords consists of more than 1,000 hereditary lords and peers. It has very little power.

The two main political parties in Great Britain are the Conservative and the Labour party. Now the Conservative party is in power. The Conservatives have been in power since the 1970s and its main opponent, the Labour party, has formed the Shadow Cabinet. At present John Major, the leader of the Conservative party, is Britain's Prime Minister.

Among other political parties there is the Liberal party and the Social-Democratic party.

Text 6. At the National Gallery

If you stand today in Trafalgar Square with you back to the Nelson Column, you will see a building of classical architecture. This is the National Gallery. It has been in this building since 1838. The British National Picture Gallery is younger than the great galleries in Rome, Paris, Amsterdam and so on.

Most of the landowners and politicians had their own collections of pictures in their country houses. They were not interested in a public collection in London.

In 1777 when one of the greatest private collections of pictures was to be sold, some of the members of Parliament wanted to buy it for the Nation. But this found no support in the House of Commons. The wonderful pictures went to Russia.

In time things changed and more people wanted to open a National Gallery. Now pictures showing British life and nature and British people are in this gallery.

The world schools of painting are also well represented here: Italian, French, Spanish, etc.

During the last war the walls of the building of the National Gallery were destroyed in some places. But the pictures were taken to Wales and put down in a deep cave at the foot of the mountain. They were saved.

Text 7. Traditions and Customs

Every nation and every country has its own customs and traditions. In Britain traditions play a more important part in the life of the people than in other countries.

Englishmen are proud of their traditions and carefully keep them up. It has been the law for about three hundred years that all the theatres are closed on Sundays. No letters are delivered, only a few Sunday papers are published.

To this day an English family prefers a house with a garden to a flat in a modern house with central heating. English people like gardens. Sometimes the garden in front of the house is a little square covered with cement painted green in imitation of grass and a box of flowers.

Holidays are especially rich in old traditions and are different in Scotland, Ireland, Wales and England. Christmas is a great English national holiday, and in Scotland it is not kept at all, except by clerks in banks; all the shops, mills and factories are working. But six days later, on New Year's Eve the Scotch begin to enjoy themselves. All the shops, mills and factories are closed on New Year's Day.

People invite their friends to their houses and "sit the Old Year out and the New Year in". When the clock begins to strike twelve, the head of the family goes to the entrance door, opens it wide and holds it until the last stroke. Then he shuts the door. He has let the Old Year out and the New Year in.

Text 10. July Fourth

July Fourth is the birthday of the United States. It is a national holiday.

Another name for July Fourth is Independence Day. Americans celebrate July Fourth as Independence Day because on July 4, 1776, the original thirteen colonies declared their independence from England.

Before 1776, the King of England ruled the thirteen colonies in America. The colonists were angry with the King because of taxes. They wanted their independence from England. A war started in 1775 between the colonists and soldiers from England. The colonists won the war. They wanted to say why they wanted their independence or freedom from England. So they chose Thomas Jefferson to write the Declaration of Independence.

On July 4, 1776, the leaders of the colonies signed the Declaration of Independence in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. It said that all people were equal and had the right to live in freedom.

A new nation was born. People rang bells and fired guns for the birth of the United States of America.

Today, Americans celebrate July Fourth in many different ways. During the day, many people get together with friends and family members for picnics. Three-four meals a day - breakfast, lunch, dinner and supper (or late tea)-are enough for most people. The meals should be varied, well cooked and attractive to look at-otherwise, however good they are, no one will want to eat them. Fresh food is better than tinned food and freshlycooked food is better than food that has been left in the oven or reheated after having becomecold. Milk and butter (or margarine) are needed every day, with meat or fish or eggs (note or, not and). Fresh green vegetables or fruit are also needed even' day. Every growing person, which means everyone up to the age of 20, should drink at least a pint of milk daily. It is best not to eat last thing at night and not to swim or take a bath just after a meal. In order to give the digestive system time to get to work on food, it is always a good thing to pause for thought - and digestion.

A point to remember is that most people eat too much sugar, as they are fond of sweets, cakes and pastry. Too much meat can also be harmful. In the 18th century people ate meat for breakfast, lunch, tea, dinner and supper and they died early of various diseases. The most important rule is moderation - eating neither too much nor too little.

A person's diet is what he eats and drinks, and it is highly important because both growth and health are affected by it. Everyone knows that without food people starve to death, and every year this happens in some country of the world in the times of famine. Even people who can get food, however, sometimes suffer from various kinds of illness because they are eating too much of one kind of food and not enough of another. This is because the body has many different needs and these needs require a balanced diet. A normal healthy diet for one day is a salad, fruit of some kind, a pint of milk, fish or meat, some cheese or an egg and some bread. Apple, orange or grapefruit juice is always a good thing, at breakfast or at any other time, so is a glass of water first thing in the morning and last thing at night.

Water is, of course, absolutely necessary to every kind of diet. About 70% of the weight of the human body is water, and a healthy man requires four quarts of water every 24 hours. However, since about 70% of most of the foods eaten is water, a large proportion of water comes from his food. The rest must be provided buy tea, coffee, milk, soup and, of course, plain water.

The waiters who work in the dining room create the atmosphere that determines restaurant's popularity, so their work is important to the success of the restaurant.

The headwaiter (maitre d'hotel), Victor, and the barman, Bob, come to the restaurant before it opens. Victor is a skilled headwaiter. He has many years of experience in this and other restaurants. The main part of his job is to control and coordinate the work of the staff in the dining room. He also greets the guests when they arrive and shows them to their tables.

Bob, the barman, is very experienced in wines and cocktails. He knows a lot of recipes of cocktails and strong drinks.

The waiters in the dining room come half an hour before the opening. First they wash their hands and change into their uniforms. Then they set the tables before the guests arrive.

The three waiters serve several table covers. Their job is to take the order and to serve the meal to their guests.

One of the waiters, Nancy, is very capable and experienced and can help Victor if necessary. The second waiter, Laura, is new to the job, but she has already worked in other restaurants.

The third waiter, Nick, wants to earn some money and travel to Europe to get experience in some of the hotel restaurants in European cities. He wants to become a headwaiter and a restaurant manager one day. He makes his work well and he likes to work with people.

The kitchen staff begin their day at three o'clock in the afternoon. The second chef, David, is a very good cook and he is able to make Anna's work when she is away. David does his work with the help of his apprentice Jim. He makes pates, ice cream and desserts. David also prepares meat dishes for the main course and then Anna cooks them.

Jim the apprentice, works two months already, and has learned a lot of things in a short time. Jim thinks that a chef 's job is rather difficult. He is sometimes so tired in the evening that at home he can do nothing but fall into bed. But this work is interesting for him. He cleans, cuts and prepares the vegetables and makes fruit salads. He learns to make garnishes and decorations on the dishes. He is happy because David fully trusts him. Today he will make the hors d'oeuvres, some of the entrees, main course and dessert dishes.

Mary is the kitchen hand. She works in the kitchen. She must keep the kitchen clean. She helps to slice mushrooms, peel potatoes and wash the dishes Mary's role is very important at the restaurant. The kitchen is always clean.

When we want to buy something, we go to a shop. There are many kinds of shops in every town or city, but most of them have a food supermarket, a department store, men's and women's clothing stores, grocery, a bakery and a butchery.

In a food supermarket we can also buy many different things at once: sausages, fish, sugar, macaroni, flour, cereals, tea. At the butcher's there is a wide choice of meat and poultry. At the bakery you buy brown and white bread, rolls, biscuits.

Another shop we frequently go to is the greengrocery which is stocked by cabbage, potatoes, onions, cucumbers, carrots, beetroots, green peas and what not. Everything is sold here ready-weighed and packed. If you call round at a dairy you can buy milk, cream, cheese, butter and many other products.

The methods of shopping may vary. It may be a self-service shop where the customer goes from counter to counter selecting and putting into a basket what he wishes to buy. Then he takes the basket to the check-out counter, where the prices of the purchases are added up. If it is not a self-service shop, and most small shops are not, the shop-assistant helps the customer in finding what he wants. You pay money to the cashier and he gives you back the change.

Many people, who go out to work, find it difficult to come home for lunch and go to a cafe or a restaurant, but they never miss a meal. Lunch is a big meal — meat or fish, potatoes and salad, puddings or fruit are quite usual for it. In the afternoon, about four o'clock, the English have a cup of tea and a cake, or a slice or two of bread and butter.

Tea is very popular with the English; it may be called their national drink. The English like it strong and fresh made. Tea must be brewed as follows: one teaspoon for each person and one for the pot. They drink it with or without sugar, but almost always with milk. It is important to pour tea into milk, and not vice versa. Their "high tea" at 5 o'clock is very famous. Tea is accompanied by ham, tomatoes and salad, bread and butter, fruit and cakes. Dinnertime is generally about half past seven or later. In some houses dinner is the biggest meal of the day. They begin with soup, followed by fish, roast chicken, potatoes and vegetables, fruit and coffee. But in great many English homes the midday meal is the chief one of the day, and in the evening they only have light meal, for example, bread and cheese and a cup of coffee or cocoa and fruit.

Variety is an important element of a rational diet. Well prepared and well served food stimulates the appetite and is easier to digest. Wheat and rye bread, cereals, macaroni, peas and beans have the highest starch content. For proper balance more starch should be taken, than sugar. The normal daily consumption of sugar, including jam, candy and other sweets, should be 100 grams. Milk and other dairy products supply the calcium the body needs. The proportion of protein, fats and carbohydrates in the daily ration should be as follows: 14—15% protein, 30% fats and 55—56%

Investigations of scientists have shown that it is most beneficial to have three or four meals a day at regular hours. In the morning, before the day's work begins, the organism should get a good "stoking" — approximately 25—30% of the entire daily nourishment; dinner should comprise 50%, and supper 20% of the day's Foods richest in protein should be eaten in the morning and during the day. Breakfast, for example, may consist of a tomato salad, boiled pike perch with potatoes, buckwheat porridge with milk, tea or coffee, bread, butter, eggs and cheese. Fish can be replaced by a meat dish, meat pie for instance; instead of porridge, pot cheese with cream and sugar may be served. Grated raw carrot before breakfast may be recommended. Dinner should be especially nourishing. If it includes a meat soup—borshch, noodle soup with meat, etc., — the main course may be prepared of cereals or vegetables followed by cranberry mousse or tea and pancakes with jam. An appetizer should be served with dinner: herring with dressing. marinade. Light dishes are recommended for supper—baked vegetables, boiled macaroni with cheese, milk porridge, fried Sour milk should be eggs. served for supper.

Cooking is a heat treatment of food to make it edible. Many products cannot be eaten raw. Meat, fish and vegetables are usually cooked. Some fruits are not cooked, but some, such as apples, pears, and currants, may be used in pies or to make desserts. Fruits are also cooked to make jams, jellies, and marmalades.

The four basic ways to cook food are:

- heating in a liquid (boiling, stewing)
- heating in fat or oil (frying and sautéing)
- heating in steam (steaming)
- heating by dry heat (baking, roasting and grilling).

Boiling. We may boil food in different liquids and mixtures, including water, stock, and wine. Meat, poultry, many vegetables and spaghetti are cooked in this way.

Stewing is cooking food slowly in liquid. It is often used for meat. Vegetables, herbs, and spices are usually added at the end of cooking.

Deep-frying is immersion of food in hot fat or oil. Chipped potatoes and doughnuts are the best example of deep-frying. Deep- fried foodsarecalledfritters.

Shallow frying is frying on a pan in hot fat or oil, when the food is fried on both sides. We can fry eggs, meat, vegetables, mushrooms, onions and pancakes Sautéingis frying when natural juices of the food are mixed with the fat or oil in the saucepan. We can also add stock, wine or cream. As a result we obtain a dish with a sauce.

Steaming is a method of cooking above the surface of boiling liquid in a covered saucepan. Fish, vegetables, and poultry are especially suitable for steaming, as are some types of puddings.

Baking is dry cooking inside an oven. Bread, cakes, pastries, tarts and biscuits are baked. Vegetables, especially potatoes, may also be cooked in, this way.

Roasting is cooking meat and poultry, which are placed in an oven and cooked by dry heat. They are often basted, that is, the juices from the meat are spooned over during the process. Some cooks wrap the meat in a roasting foil with a little oil or melted fat. Meat can be also roasted on a spit.

Grilling is a rapid method of cooking poultry, fish, cuts of meat, sausages and kebabs by heat, the source of which may be gas, electricity, or charcoal.

The word menu means:

- A list of dishes served in this restaurant
- The list of dishes and vines with prices. Sometimes it is called bill of fare. It is usually printed in the form of a card and each guest receives a copy of the menu. In popular fast food restaurants there are one or two big menus on blackboards.

The structure of menu

The classical French menu has more than twelve courses. Modern menus usually have two or three courses:

- Appetizers [æpitaiza] or snacks
- Soups
- Entrées ['antreiz]
- Main courses
- Desserts [di'za:ts].

Many restaurants call the first three courses «starters».

- 1. Appetizers can be hors-d'oeuvres, pâtés, or natural oysters. These dishes are usually cold. They stimulate the appetite and are served at the beginning of the meal.
- 2. Soups may be thick potage or thin consommé. Soups are usually served hot, but can be served cold.
- 3. The entree in the classical French menu is a course served between the fish and the main meat courses. In the modern menu it can be seafood dishes, salads, small fried sausages or fish.
- 4. The main course is the most substantial course of the meal. Guests usually choose their main courses first and then select other courses. When chefs design menus, they usually start with the main course and then plan the other courses.
- 5. Dessert is the sweet course at the end of a meal or before coffee. In Britain it can be fruit and nuts, or a pudding. Coffee can be served with chocolates, biscuits or fruits. The most popular dessert is ice cream.

BITTERS

A highly concentrated flavoring agent made from roots, barks, herbs, and/or berries. Bitters are reputed to have medicinal qualities. Some, such as Compari and Fernet-Branca from Italy are believed to be such good stomach settlers and may even be useful in treating hangovers. Bitters such as Angostura are also effective in minute quantities as smoothing out the taste of a particularly harsh or bitter whiskey. Abbot's bitters have been made in Baltimore since 1865, Peychoud bitters come from New Orleans and Orange Bitters are made in England from the dried peels of Seville oranges.

BLENDED WHISKEY

Blended whiskey came into prominence in the United States during world war II, when distillers made the most of their dwindling stocks of whiskey by mixing them with unaged grain-neutral spirits. By U.S. law, blended whiskey must contain at least 20% straight whiskey. The rest may be unaged grain neutral spirits, pure alcohol with little or no flavor-and that's exactly what the cheaper, inferior blends tend to be. Actually, there are two types of blended whiskey: the aforementioned cheaper brands in which straight whiskey is blended with grain neutral spirits, and those in which straight whiskeys of varying character and qualities are blended together to produce a distinctive product. Most Scotch, Bourbon, Canadian, rye, and Irish whiskeys currently on the market, including the very best available, are blended whiskeys and fall into this second category.

COGNAC

A type of brandy that is produced only in the Cognac region of western France and is universally recognized as the finest and most elegant liqueur in the world. Not a drop of any other wine or brandy is ever allowed to enter a bottle of Cognac. The Cognac region is divided into six districts, with the Cognac of Grand Champagne considered the best. Cognac is coded on the label by the following letters: V (very), S (superior), O (old), P (pale), E (extra or especial), F (fine), X (extra). French law states that Cognac with 3 stars be aged at least 1½ years old to be rated VS & 4 years to be rated VSOP (although 7-10 years is pretty common). By French law the words Extra, Napolean, Reserve and Vieille may not appear on the label unless the cognac has been aged at least  $5\frac{1}{2}$  years.

3. Переведите текст на русский язык: GIN

Gin is basically grain alcohol, mostly corn (75%) with some malted barley (15%) and other grains (10%) thrown in. It is then redistilled with or through juniper berries and botanicals such as coriander seed, cassia bark, orange peels, fennel seeds, anise, caraway, angelica root, anis root, licorice, lemon peel, almonds, cassia bark, cardomann seeds, cinnamon bark, bergamot and cocoa. It is this secondary process that imparts to each gin its particular taste. Most of the gin now produced is London dry, which is clean light, unsweet, and perfect for making for martinis. The Dutch still produce a sweeter, more robust version of their own called Holland's gin, which, while is unsuitable for mixing purposes is drunk neat and cold. Gin does not require aging.

IRISH WHISKEY

The Irish have been making whiskey for 700 years and are said to have invented the stuff. The main difference between Irish and Scotch whiskey is that Irish Whisky is entirely lacking in the smoky taste that characterizes Scotch. The reason for this is that the Scots use peat in the kilns in which they dry their malt, while the Irish use coal. Irish whiskey is distilled from a grain mixture that consists of malted as well as unmalted barley, along with small proportions of wheat, oats, and rye. Irish whiskey tends to be old (at least seven years) and more mature than Scotch, probably because it is not purchased at the same rate as Scotch. Full-bodied, unblended Irish whiskeys produced in pot stills have a very pronounced character, which makes them very unpopular with many American palates. There are many blended Irish whiskeys that are lighter and less strong in character. The distillery at Bush mills in County Antrim dates from 1608 and is believed to be the oldest in the world. Irish whiskey is unique in that it is the only whiskey distilled 3 times.

LIQUEUR

An alcoholic beverage that is manufactured by adding flavorings such as strawberry, orange, or almond to a distilled spirit. The flavorings can be added in one of three fashions; steeping, percolating/filtering, and redistilling. Combinations of flavors, such as mint, chocolate, vanilla, and coffee are also used. Because of the way they are produced, the differences in quality among liqueurs are dramatic. Some liqueurs, especially those manufactured in Europe, are still made by natural processes and contain natural ingredients. Unfortunately, many of the larger liqueur firms, including most American firms, use chemical flavor concentrates in the manufacture of their liqueurs. Where such chemical concentrates are used, the law stipulates that the liqueur must be designated on the label as "artificial", or "imitation". One line of liqueurs still manufactured entirely by natural process is France's Marie Brizard, Bolls of Holland (which makes superb triple-sec, and Curacao), and the original Amaretto di Saronne.

PERRIER

A highly effervescent bottled water that the French use in highballs instead of club soda. It has a sharp edge that works well as a counterpoint to the stickiness of fruit juices. Highly popular on this side of the Atlantic, Perrier can be taken alone or with lime juice.

RUM

Rum can be made from 2 different raw materials: it can be distilled directly from the fermented juice of crushed sugar cane, or, once the sugar is extracted, it can be made from the remaining molasses. Some rums contain dunder, which is a residue from the previous distillation and makes for a more pungent product. Three main types of rum are made in the West Indies today. Very light(white or silver) rums hail from the Virgin Islands or Puerto Rico. These require little aging and are relatively tasteless and oderless. Golden rum, also known as anejo, though still of the light-bodied type, has more taste and pronounced character. Darker, aromatic, full bodied rums such as Myer's are produced in Jamaica. These are distilled by a slower and different fermentation process, which allows for a fuller richer, molasses like body to develop. All rum is colorless when first distilled, and those that are aged for only a year are often colored with caramel. Even heavy bodied rums that are aged in charred oak casks for as long as twenty years are subject to artificial coloring. Medium and heavy bodied rums are usually aged between two and twenty years.

RYE

The oldest native American whiskey, originally manufactured in the 1600s by Scotch and Irish settlers in New York. Rye is a very full bodied drink with a pronounced character, and perhaps for that reason, it has faded in popularity in the land of its origin to the point where it lags behind all other varieties of whiskey in consumption. Many people confuse rye with blended whiskey, but the two are far from being the same. Rye must be made with at least 51% rye grain, the rest being corn and barley. Rye is aged in new charred oak barrels for at least 2 years.

SCOTCH

Scotch whiskey is produced only in Scotland. Some Scotch whiskeys sold in the United States are produced in Scotland and then bottled in the U.S. Most are blends of malt whiskeys and grain whiskeys and typically contain the products of fifty or more distilleries, with the better and more expensive brands containing more malt than grain. Some Scotches are blends of different malts and these are known as vatted malts. In recent years, unblended scotches or single malts like Glenfiddich have achieved a considerable popularity.
